SENATORIAL CONTESTS.

THE STRUGGLE IN SEVERAL STATES. SENATOR HOAR'S VICTORY IN MASSACHUSETTS-A TELEGRAM FROM MR. CRAPO SAID TO BE A FOR-GERY-MR. WINDOM LOSING GROUND IN MIN-

Senator Hoar was reelected on the first ballot taken yesterday in the Massachusetts Legislature. A telegram was said to have been received from Mr. Crapo withdrawing his name and requesting his friends to support Mr. Hoar. Late last evening it was said that the telegram was a forgery. A prolonged contest is expected in Minnesota. Three ballots were taken yesterday and Senator Windom lost votes on each. It is reported that his supporters may abandon him on Saturday. There was no choice in Nebraska or Michigan. Senator Plumb, of Kansas, has been unanimously renominated in caucus and his reelection is certain. The chances for the return of Senator McPherson, of New-Jersey, are said to be favorable.

GEORGE F. HOAR REELECTED. MP. CRAPO SAID TO HAVE WITHDRAWN IN HIS FAVOR-RUMORS OF A FORGED DISPATCH.

IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. Boston, Jan. 18 .- As predicted in the dispatches last night, Senator Hoar was reelected to-day on the first ballot. This was brought about by the announcement that a dispatch had been received from Mr. Crapo withdrawing from the contest. It is positively affirmed to-night that Mr. Crapo sent no dispatch withdrawing his name and advising his friends to vote for Mr. Hoar. It looks like a forgery, inasmuch as a dispatch purporting to come from him was shown at the State House before the convention met, and undoubtedly caused the Crapo men to abandon their candidate.

The result, before there was any suspicion as to the methods by which it had been accomplished, was generally commended even by many who have been ardent admirers of John D. Long. A good deal of indignation has been aroused among all classes of Republicans because of Mr. Long's refusal to decline to be a candidate. He had a fine opportunity on Wednesday to gain the gratitude and admiration of Republicans by drawing out of the contest, but he declined to do so and has lost valuable ground. Long's selfish course has won for Mr. Hoar many supporters. Many of Long's friends would have been pleased to see him in the Senate if he could have been put there by Republican votes, but the thought of his owing his election to Governor Butler's influence was decidedly chnoxious to Republicans generally. This is the second defeat for Governor Butler. He was defeated in his effort to elect a president of the State Senate, and the reelection of Hoar is a very bitter pill. It is safe to say that the signing of Senator Hoar's commission will be the most humiliating act that General Butler will be called upon

SCENES IN THE CONVENTION. IGENERAL PRESS DISPATCH.

Boston, Jan. 18 .- The most important event of the morning session at the State House was the announcement that a telegram had been received from W. W. Crapo, in Washington, withdrawing his name from the contest and requesting his friends to give their support to Hoar. As Crapo had received twelve votes and Hoar required only seven or eight of that number to secure his election, the excitement was considerable. The crowd this morning, like that of yesterday, was large, and those comprising it began to gather in the corridors an hour and a half before the joint convention was called to order. Those upon whom the labors of the convention devolved seemed far less concerned than did those who came as spectators.

The joint convention, President Crocker in the chair, assembled at 12 o'clock and at once proceeded with its special work. As the first ballot was being taken it became evident that Hoar would be re elected.

The scenes in the convention during roll-call were the most exciting of any that occurred since the voting began. Before the convention assembled a secret meeting of Crapo men was held in the little committee room. Word was received from Manston and Clifford Crapo's New-Bedford friends that it was Crapo's desire to yield and have his friends go over to Hoar. A unanimous vote was taken, and it was decided to leave Crapo, but a New-Bedford man refused to vote for Hoar. One Craps man was

The roll-call began soon after 12 o'clock, and the first Crape man on the list was Boardman, of Boston. He replied to his name "George F. Hoar," greatly to the surprise of those present. Five names further down was the name of Brown, of Boston, another the name of Brown, of Boston, another Crapo man. He voted for Mr. Hoar and again the whispering ran around the room, for the policy of the Crapo men by these two successive votes was clear. As their names were reached the Crapo men voted for Hoar, and long before the roll-call was ended it was evident that Hoar was to be elected on the first vote. The New-Bedford Crapo man who was absent voted for Crapo, and two Democrats also voted for him. During the voting twenty-nine changes occurred from the second vote of yesterday, and after the roll-call, before the voting was announced, four other changes were made. Hoar gained from Long: Baker, of Lynn; Clark, of Boston; Fuller, of Ludlow; Robinson, of New-Bedford; Sterbird, of Lowell, and Varnum. of Lowell. From Crapo he gained Boardman, of Boston; Brown, of Boston; Dennam, of New-Bedford; Sterbird, of Lowell, and Varnum. of Donnis; Freeman, of Chatham; Freeman, of Nantucket; Gordon, of New-Bedford; Sterbird, of Lowell, and Varnum. of Nantucket; Gordon, of New-Bedford; Senator Johnson, of the Cape District, and Small, of Frovincetown. Bowerman gained from Long; Delan, of Lawrence; Senator Drake, of Bristol; Senator Freeman, of Suffolk; Mellen, of Worcester; O'Connell, of Worcester; Benator Parker, of Essex; Senator Stele, of Essex, and Sullivan, of Lawrence. Crapo gained Hall, of Upton and Fennesy, of Boston, from Bowerman; Horrub, of Plympton, from Hoar, and Seavell, of New-Bedford, from Crapo.

When the roll-call was over, before the vote was announced, the convention was in confusion. The Hoar leaders were congratulated on every side and there was general rejoicing among the Hoar and Crapo men. Senator Bates, of Worcester, the leader of the Hoar forces, was the centre of a happy company. Before the vote was stated, Senator Seeley, of Southern Crapo man. He voted for Mr. Hoar and again the general rejoicing among the Hoar and Crape menbenator Bates, of Worcester, the leader of the Hoar forces, was the centre of a happy company. Before the vote was stated, Senator Seeley, of Southern Berkshire, changed from Long to Hoar. Senator Barton, of Worcester, who was the only absentee on the roll-call, voted for Hoar instead of Bowerman, his previous choice. Representative Fennesy, of Boston, changed from Crapo to Bowerman, and Senators Crowley, of Middlesex, changed from Long to Bowerman. The result was then announced. No outburst of applause foilowed, but there was a deep feeling of satisfaction among the Hoar and Crapo men, a bitter disappointment among the Long men and content among the Democrats. The latter had beenready to go to Long, or any other Republican, to beat Hoar, but the anti-Hoar men could not muster sufficient strength to make a successful combination, and so they stood in the main by their candidate. Crapo gots much credit among Republicaus for withdrawing in Hoar's favor.

The vote as announced is as follows: G. F. Hoar, 148; J. D. Long, 35; S. W. Bowerman, 88; Crapo,
4; scattering, 2. Total, 277.

Eccaing—A private dispatch from Washing-

Evening-A private dispatch from Washingreceived here to-night, indicates a forgery has been committed resulted to-day in the election of Senator Hoar. There was published to-day an alleged dispatch from Congressman Crapo which was circulated among his supporters in the Legislature to the effect that those who voted for him and friends of his should vote for Mr. Hoar. An intimation to this effect in an evening paper caused much comment, and it is now known that Mr. Crapo never sent out or authorized such a dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 .- S.enator Hoar received a series of very hearty congratulations upon his election to-day. When the information was received as crowded around him by the dozen to shake his hand. The result was an unexpected one to him. Yesterday a friend expressed to him the hope that he would come out all right.

"I don't expect it," he said. "My competitor will probably be elected to-morrow."

OPINIONS OF THE BOSTON PAPERS.

The Journal (Rep.) says, regarding Senator Hoar's reelection: The reclection of George F. Hoar is a great victory for the Republican party in Massachusetts. It ballies the canningly contrived schemes of Governoe Butter and his Democratic following, and attests before the world that the Republican party has vitality enough and consistency enough and loyalty to principle enough to keep free from coalitions and to execute its own policy in its own way.

enough to keep free from coalitions and to execute its own policy in its own way.

The Traveller (Rep.) says: The net result is the victory of a Republican faction at the expense of the whole party, and to the imminent peril of its future ascendancy in this State. As such, it is a fit subject for rejoicing only among Democrats.

From The Herald.

Senator Hoar obtained his election in a very creditable manner. There was no enueus, no pressure, and he was elected by a strictly party vote.

From The Transcript.

The State and the country are greatly the gainers by the decision of the Legislature to-day, dissipating the mists that were gathering in dense clouds above the political horizon of the formerly stendfast Republican Commonwealth of Massachusetts

From The Advertiser.

The Advertiser (Rep.) will say: The result will be highly satisfactory to the Republican party of Massachusetts and of the country. We congratulate the Republicans of the State and of the country upon yesterday's good work. There is no mistake nor confusion as to its significance. A long step has been taken toward recovery from the misiorizate of November. We must endure General Entler as Governor for a season; but the assurance that the Legislature is not Butler's to command is full of encouragement."

From The Post.

The Post (Dem.) will say: "We hope he understands the command is full of encouragement."

The Post (Dem.) will say: "We hope he understands the reasons that have prevailed in maxing him his own successor. If he thinks 'it a vludication, he is much misraken. While it would have been a very significant rebuke to Senator Hoar to deleat him, the narrow, little majority by which he is reclected is far from a triumph. He was in a position to command the workers. The opposition was not crystallized, and so he won. It means: Not guilty, but don't you do it again. Democrate blundering had much to do with the election of Hoar. Without it, in all probability, there would have been a prolonged deadlock, which would have resulted in the defeat of Hoar and the election of some Republican of more liberal views."

From The Globe.

From The Globe.

We have no particular sympathy with Mr. Hoar and did not desire his reciccion. He is to continue to represent Massachusetts. People, regardless of party, want a Senator to have influence in Washington. If Mr. Hoar can restrain his temper and prejudices and let other men have a right to their opinions, as he desires to exercise his, he will make a better Senator and be more creditable to the State during the next six years than he has been in the past.

THE STRUGGLE IN MINNESOTA.

IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. St. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 18 .- The claim is made that Senator Windom has forty-seven votes that will stand by him in any event, and some of his leading supporters arge that the opposition may be met by man would probably be State Senator Wilson, of Winona, for whom the Democrats have been voting all along. At the Windom caucus to-night only thirty-three members were present, and the discussion was confined to the question whether to abandon Windom or not. It is reported that Windom is on his way here from Washington. The Windom men will vote for him to-morrow, but it looks as if they will break on Saturday and most of them go to Gordon E. Cole, a member of the lower House of the Legislature. WINDOM LOSING VOTES ON EVERY BALLOT.

Fifty-three Republican members of the Legislature attended the Windom caucus last night. It is said that forty-seven voted for the resolution to continue the vote for him. Windom has lost four or five votes on every ballot so far, until he is now fifteen short of a majority. The resolution of the caucus, however, promises a prolonged contest. Gordon E. Cole is being talked of as a prominent candidate, but the anti-Windom men may try to concentrate on Governor Hubbard

Three ballots were taken to-day, without a result. The first bailot stood: Windom, 58; Wilson, 35; Cole, 14; Hubbard, 8; Dunnell, 11; Davis, 3; Cole, 14; Hubbard, 8; Dannell, 11; Davis, 3; Start, 4; Streit, 2; Gilman, 1; Armstrong, 1; Berry, 1; Castle, 1; Farmer, 2; Kindred, 5; total, 146. MCPHERSON'S CHANCES FAVORABLE, TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18 .- The Republican members of the Legislature have named Monday evening for their cancus in the United States Senatorial ontest, while the Democrats have not vet designated a day for their caucus, though it is generally believed that it will come off on Tuesday night. The balloting for United States Senator begins on Wednesday. The present outlook is dubious. Attorney-General Stockton is reticent as to his plans, as is also Governor Ludlow. Senator McPherson as is also Governor Ludlow. Senator McPherson will return to Trenton early next week. Gottfried Kreuger, the Newark brewer who was spoken of several days ago as a probable opponent of Senator McPherson, has apparently dropped out of the fight. The inaction of Messrs. Stockton and Ludlow gives little hope to their friends that they will be able to defeat Senator McPherson, though both will do their best by combining to accomplish that end. Up to the present time the outlook is favorable to McPherson.

SENATOR PLUMB TO BE RETURNED. TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 18 .- At the Republican Legislative caucus held here yesterday afternoon to nominate a United States Senator, Preston B.Plumb received 106 votes on the first ballot, being the unanimous vote of the caucus. POLITICAL AND CONGRESSIONAL TOPICS. DISCUSSING THE TARIFF-WASTE OF TIME BY THE SENATE-THE NAVY BILL IN THE HOUSE-A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT. Both the House and the Senate adjourned early yesterday on the announcement of the death of Representative Shackleford. ### CONSIDERING TARIFF REFORM.

PREFERENCE FOR THE COMMISSION'S BILL-PROB-ABILITY OF THE WAYS AND MEANS MEASURE

IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 .- Conversations to-day with Republican Representatives of diff rent shades of opinion in regard to the tariff show that a rather strong sentiment exists in favor of dropping the bill reported by the Ways and Means Committee, should an opportunity offer, and accepting as a whole the one prepared by the Tariff Commission. Thus a Pennsylvania Representative expressed his preference to-day for the latter bill, chiefly because he thought it could be more easily understood and defended than the one reported by the House Committee. His belief that the latter leaves the rates of duty omewhat higher than the former, does not affect his preference, despite the fact that he would not be very sorry if all attempts at tariff reform should fail at this session.

An Iudiana Representative, whose name has been included in most of the lists of thick-and-thin opponents of the Tariff bill prepared by the Ways and Means Committee, in reply to a question by a TRIBUNE correspondent to-day said: "I am anxious to see the bill amended as to some of its details, but I shall finally vote for it. As a whole, however, I would greatly prefer the commission's bill which I could vote for exactly as it stands."

A committee representative, who favors the House bill because it takes better care of certain industries in his district than the commission's bill does, admitted that in the main he preferred the latter. Another New-England Representative, who is well informed on tariff questions, waile conceding the intelligence and industry of the Tariff Commission, criticises some of their work as imperfect and some of their recommendations as crude and unsatisfactory. He prefers, on the whole, the bill reported by the Ways and Means Committee, Another very prominent Republican Representative does the same, and gives his reasons substantially

"Suppose that the Senate and House bills both fall, and that we then adopt the commission's bill ? It will have to be sent to a conference committee. If that committee consists of six members they will almost inevitably be Kelley, Kasson and Carlisle on the part of the House, and Morrill, Sherman and Bayard or Beck on the part of the Senate-a majority of them untrustworthy on tariff matters according to my view. If the Committee is increased to ten mem bers, McKinley and Randalt will be added by the House, and Aldrich and Bayard, or Beck, by the in a railroad company he shall be disqualified from acting as judge.

Senate and the situation will be no better. Then when the Conference report is brought in it will receive no intelligent discussion, and not one man in ten will know what the effect of his vote will "Suppose that the Tariff Commission bill should be offered as substitute for the House bill at the beginning of the debate, and that the discussion should be conducted on parallel lines," suggested the correspondent. "Well, there would be no great objection to that. What we want is intelligent and thorough discus sion." was the reply. The objections of many Representatives to the House oill seem to spring from their despair of ever being able to understand the effect of its provisions. There is too much guessing about it " they complain, and this complaint is evidently just. For example, the present duty on cotton hose, shirts, etc., is 35 per cent ad valore a, and the duties collected last year amounted to about $2,568,000. The Tariff Commission brought these articles into a section of the cotton schedule with other items, and reinmended a uniform duty of 40 per cent. The Ways and Means Committee, and the senate Committee also, have revised cotton hosiery, etc., and imposed a duty of 35 per cent upon all such go made on knitting machines or frames, and 40 per cent upon all such goods fashioned, narrowed or shaped wholly or in part by knitting machines or frames, or knit by hand. Of course the question at once arises "What pro portion will be taxed at 35 per cent and what proportion at 45 per cent?" It is a question that nobody seems able to answer. Mr. J. S. Moore would probably say that three-fourths would have to pay the higher rate. A New England Representative, who is an old merchant and who has "handled tons of such goods," as he exit, found that expert who is engaged in making calculations for the benefit of the Ways and Means Committee has quietly assumed-guessed-that two-thirds would be subject to 45 per cent duty and one-third to the 35 percent duty. "I asked him how he knew," said the Representative, " andhe could only say that he 'thought so.' . When I told him I thought that the proportions ought to be exactly reversed, he wanted to know why I thought so, and I told him. Then I asked him if he had been sent down here to guess for us." Representative Chace, of Rhode Island, who is an experienced cotton manufacturer, has spent much time in trying to cipher out what the reduction in the cotton schedule will be, but admits that owing to differences of classification. etc., it is quite impracticable to reach a perfectly definite and satisfactory result. Under the present tariff cotton yarns are classified according to four grades. The Tariff Commission reclassified these yarns into seven grades and this new classification has been adopted by both the House and the Senate. The smallest reduction on any grade according to Mr. Chace's figures is 11 11-100 per cent and the highest 33 1-3 per cent. On cotton cloth of different grades unbleached, bleached, colored, dyed, printed, etc., the reductions range alf the way from about 20 to 60 per cent, the average on the basis of importations, which is a very unsate; isfactory basis, being in the n-ighborhood of 30 per cent. Mr. Chace, of course, found when he came to compare the new ra.es, which are either specific or advalorem, with the present rates, which are compound, that it was impracticable to reach a satisfactory and definite result in percentages. That part of the schedule embracing cotton cords, laces, webbing, etc., also offered insuperable difficulties, owing to reclassification. There has been an inscrease on laces, for example, but what proportion that item bears to the whole importations of articles with which it is classed in the present schedule, it is manifestly impossible to determine. These examples are sufficient to show how wide is the latitude for gnessing. The "Parsee merchant" may set his guess as high as he pleases, and even Chairman Kelley cannot prove the guess to be wrong; or Judge Kelley may put his guess down to the very lowest notch and even David A. Wells cannot show it to be a fallacy.

The lot of a Senator or Representative in these days of attempted tariff revision "is not a happy one" in every respect. The Ohio Senators and Representatives realized this to-day when they received copies of a preamble and resolutions adopted by the Ohio State Board of Agriculture, denouncing the recommendations of the Tariff. Under the present tariff cotton yarns are classified according to four grades. The Tariff Commission deputy grand master, Dwight Wangi grand assist warden, augustus C. Golding grand junior warden. Henry H. Green; grand treasurer, John G. Root; grand secretary, Joseph K. Wheeler.
